English Consonants

Final Consonants

Most consonants are mastered first SIWI. The exceptions are velars and fricatives which are mastered first SFWF. English has a LOT of final consonants, the most prevalent of which are velars, fricatives and voiceless stops. In typical development, children produce codas (final consonants) more often after short (lax) vowels. When working on eliminating Final Consonant Deletion choose words like bus, check, cop, rather than base, choke, keep where the vowel is long (tense). At first, credit any final consonant, building on what the child already has in his or her inventory. If possible, select words with 'favoured' (in the language) final consonants: i.e., fricatives, velars and voiceless stops.
